W. M. BIRKS SPEAKER AT S.C.A. DINNER

Spoke on Board of Trade's Trans-Canada Trip

THANKSGIVING DINNER

Over 160 Students Took Advantage of Hospitality

There was a very large attendance at the S. C. A. Thanksgiving Dinner at the Hall last night. This dinner is given annually to the out-of-town students by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the S. C. A. About 160 students took advantage of this. After everybody had satisfied their palates, a musical treat was offered. Harold Vango played a few violin selections, Bill Hewetson led the students in the singing of songs. Lastly, there was a trio by Collins, Hewetson and Smith.

Mr. W. M. Birks was the principal speaker of the evening. He welcomed the students and pointed out to them the advantages of the S. C. A. to the student. He also spoke about the trip which the members of the Board of Trade had recently made across Canada. Amongst them was a good number of the members of the House of Lords and the House of Commons. Their trans-Canada trip took them through the Great Lakes, Winnipeg, Calgary, Vancouver, up to Banff, and then to Prince Rupert. On their trip back home they took in some of the districts in the northern part of the country. Many problems presented themselves to the Board of Trade in the cities through which they passed. They complained about the manner in which the Eastern banks and businesses had treated the West. At the head of the Great Lakes they heard a good deal of discussion dealing with the waterways question; whether it would be advantageous to us to co-operate with the United States or not. In the Western towns, they met the question dealing with the unequitable interest rate. In British Columbia the members met with the question of freight rates. Mr. Birks explained the many problems connected with this question which the average business man could not master. Mr. Birks also spoke of what seemed to be the promise of the future in regard to Canadian centres. He predicted that there would be four great Canadian metropolises, namely, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, and Vancouver, which would correspond in function to New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and San Francisco, the four American centres. Mr. Birks thought that Edmonton, due to the extensiveness and the productivity of its hinterland would become a great centre of population and

MANDOLIN CLUB WILL PLAY AT CONVOCATION

The first important engagement of the season at which the McGill Mandolin Club is asked to play is the Special Convocation Ceremony for Admiral Sims next Friday afternoon.

The Club has a very ambitious programme for this session, as the opening engagement indicates. The Students' Council, in inviting the men to play next Friday, has given to the Club an excellent opportunity to prove its undoubted merit and worth as a musical organization, and to undergraduates and friends an unusually fine chance to hear this group at its best. The music and college songs will be played by one of the best Mandolin Clubs ever formed at McGill.

Why Don't They Wear 'Em?

Eleven freshmen, who failed to wear their emerald-tinted caps at Colorado U., were arraigned before a judge in Mount Court and sentenced to recite "Mary Had a Little Lamb" on the stage of the union building. Other rhinies were found guilty of smoking, walking on the grass and telling lies.

PARLIAMENT RE-ASSEMBLES ON THURSDAY

Progressives in Power Under R. K. Jones

BIG ISSUES

Railways Expected to Be Chief Topic for Debate

The first session of the Mock Parliament for the present year is called for Thursday evening, November 9. Last year the inaugural sitting was an immense success, and from prevalent indications the forthcoming parliament will be its equal. At the meeting held in the autumn of 1921 there was an attendance of well over six hundred and the debates brought forth much forensic ability. At that time the Constitutional Party was in power under the leadership of F. O. Peterson of Arts '22, while the opposition, the Progressives, was led by W. R. Dillon of Law '22. It was on the floor of the House that each of these men established his right to a place on the Intercollegiate Debating Team; that debaters of intercollegiate calibre will participate this year in the activities of the Mock Parliament is practically assured when the number who will be afforded an opportunity to speak is considered.

Next Thursday Prime Minister R. K. Jones will be at the head of the party in power. As leader of the Progressive Party, Jones has gained for himself considerable distinction about college both as a speaker and as an organizer. He has been asked to form the government by virtue of the Progressives holding the majority of votes at the final session of the Parliament last spring. His appointment was confirmed at a general meeting of the Lit. of ten days ago for the purpose of electing some one to guide the destinies of the government and to draw up a programme to present to the electorate. The Premier is a member of Arts '23 and as such has a strong following in that faculty.

The Constitutionalists, in contrast to last year, will occupy the opposition benches and will have as their chief spokesman a Law man in the person of Victorien Barre. Barre has for several years taken an active part in the Mock Parliament and will prove a worthy opponent to Jones.

Thus far no definite policy has been outlined by the Government, but it is generally understood about the campus that one of the main planks in its platform will have to do with a decided modification in the management of the Canadian National Railways. Exactly what form this proposal will take is not known, but being, as it is, one of the great issues before the country today, it should not fail to strike a corresponding note of appeal to the student. The tariff and immigration are likewise subjects that are billed for discussion if time permits.

Fuller details will be announced tomorrow.

Quite a Nifty Stunt

The Colorado University "C" flag is to be displayed from an 80-foot flag pole on the gridiron of that school. The pole is being erected by the Boosters Club. As the flag is raised before each game, the college song, "Glory, Glory, Colorado" is sung by the students.

TORONTO WON HARRIER RUN FROM MCGILL

Goforth of the Blue and White Team Wins Race

WIGGINS SECOND

Score: Toronto, 13; McGill, 27; R.M.C., 42

Varsity romped off with the Intercollegiate Harrier Run on Saturday, when four of the first five to finish were wearers of the Blue and White. McGill finished second, with R.M.C. third and last. Queens did not enter a team.

Goforth, the present inter-collegiate three-mile champion, reached the tape first, followed by the McGill captain, Wiggins. "Wiggy" crossed the line only twelve seconds behind the winner, and with a substantial lead over the third man, Curtin.

Fifteen runners lined up at the mark on Saturday. At the start of the race McGill took the lead, and Wiggins set the pace. Reaching the top of Pine Avenue, Goforth caught up with the Red and White star and trailed him up the steep serpentine, Egerton and Stephen closely following the pair. The two Toronto runners, Bell and Curtin, opened up in this part of the race, and Bell passing Goforth, made Wiggins open up to hold his lead. In the long level stretch west toward the Ski Club Goforth was again able to get into the second position, Wiggins still setting a very fast pace. The entire Toronto team had by this time caught the leaders, while R.M.C. team was trailing. Leaving the dirt track and starting back along the road east the five Toronto runners were all close behind Wiggins, who still led. Legg, the last year star, was still fighting for a place, running close behind the leaders. Stephen had fallen back a bit, but was running easily at this stage in the run. Then, as the runners hit the light down grade, Goforth began to come up from in back of Wiggins, and the two men sprinted to the three mile mark, fighting for the lead. Goforth came into first place, but Wiggins kept close behind. Both the men had little by little lost the rest of the group, and were now well in the lead. In the run over to Fletcher's Field the positions did not change, but on reaching the serpentine the leaders still kept the same position. The rest of the men running at the end of the race. Kerr, a freshman, and new man at the endurance running game, started to pass the rest. At the two mile mark Kerr was running nearly last, but in the long down hill run he let out and was the third McGill man to cross the finishing line. He placed eighth

PULP AND PAPER CLUB PLANS TRIP

On the invitation of President Chahoon of the Laurentide Company, the McGill Pulp and Paper Club will visit Grand Mere to inspect the Company's plant and property.

The party will leave on Friday, Nov. 17th, at 11.30 p.m., from the Windsor Station, arrive at Grand Mere at 8 a.m., on Saturday; leave at 5.15 p.m., and arrive in Montreal again at 9.40 p.m. Saturday evening.

It will be possible for a few others to accompany the Club if they so desire, but as the number of the party has to be curtailed somewhat, members of the senior years will be given preference.

A special rate of $5 for the round trip has been secured from the C.P.R. In addition there will be $2.75 for a lower berth, or $2.25 for an upper berth. This will make the cost of the trip under $9, which is very reasonable. The meals and expenses in Grand Mere will be looked after by the Laurentide Company, who are noted for their hospitality.

It is useless to mention the many opportunities to see the latest mechanical, chemical and electrical developments which Grand Mere affords.

The party will be accompanied by a prominent member from the Staff of the Chemical, Mechanical and Electrical Engineering Departments of Applied Science, respectively.

Those who would like to accompany the Club should give their names to F. W. Macrae, Comm. '23, or W. C. Munro, Science '23, at once.

On going to press, we deeply regret to hear of the death of E. A. Taylor, Med. '24, after a short illness.

THE NEXT MAN

There is a commonplace in the vocabulary of the average American collegian known as "Harvard indifference." Whether or not the general attitude of the students of that great institution is characterized by indifference it is not here purposed to discuss; but at least one of the symptoms of this very alleged spirit seems to be all too prevalent at McGill. In the class-room, in the university buildings, in the Union, and in general wherever students congregate on the Campus, a spirit of indifference manifests itself. Each student seems to have his own narrow circle of associates, beyond which his interest does not extend. True, there does not seem to be any general snobbishness as at some other universities, but the average student takes little interest in his fellow-student unless it happen that he is a particular friend of his. For weeks and even months students may see each other twice a day on the Campus and yet because they have not been intimately associated, do not even acknowledge each other on the street. And this spirit has even been noticed to some extent where one would scarcely expect to find it—on some of our athletic fields. While it can never be said that our teams lack spirit on the field, there has at times been an absence of general companionship off the field—an indifference towards the next man—not infrequently.

No doubt the absence of dormitories here has considerable to do with the question. Where students are thrown together as they are in dormitory life there is much less of this self-centred, self-satisfied spirit to be found. But after all much must come from the student himself. Dormitories cannot achieve everything alone; and besides McGill must always draw for a great part of her students from men who will not live at the "dorms." It must be the aim then of every student to overcome this spirit in himself if he possess it. To eradicate the spirit of apathy towards fellow-students. "Harvard indifference" may or may not be a thing of fact; let us see to it that "McGill indifference" be not even an empty commonplace in the Canadian collegian's vocabulary.

ONTARIO CLUB ONCE MORE IN LIMELIGHT

Membership Fees Now Being Collected

The Ontario Club will in the very near future begin its activities with a monster smoker. This is the second year of this lively organization and the executive are bound to set a record in the coming year which will be a hard one to equal by any of the other sectional clubs.

At present the faculty representatives are collecting the membership fees. Owing to the large number of Ontario students at the college this year those in charge have decided to reduce the fee to $1. By doing this it is thought that enough money will be collected to carry the club through its promising season if the majority of the men join the organization.

Last year the club held several smokers and a skating party and dance, all of which were signal successes. If any student has an idea for an entertainment he will have a chance of putting it on the programme for the coming year at the smoker.

For the benefit of those coming to college for the first time, the executives and representatives are as follows: Hon. President—Prof. Carruthers. President—O. L. McCullough. Vice-President—W. W. Davis. Secretary-Treasurer—Geo. Rumpel. Arts Representative—A. V. Sharpe. Commerce Representative—S. C. Scobell. Medicine Representative—J. Puddicombe. Science Representative—Woolcombe. Theology Representative—Strapp.

in the run. When the runners hit the sidewalk down Park Avenue, the real fight for the meet began. Stephen came down the pavement at a terrific pace, passing Kerr and two other runners. Leboutillier, of R.M.C., came up to the track trailing, but in the half mile run on the cinders passed several men and finished sixth.

The final score of the meet was: Toronto, 13; McGill, 27; and R.M.C., 42. The visiting runners were at a big disadvantage, as they were running over a course which was new to them. To-

RIFLE CLUB HOLDS INTER-YEAR SHOOT

Competition for the Birkett Cup

The McGill Rifle Association held what was probably the last shoot of the season in the Inter-year competition for the Birkett Cup. Contrary to the conditions attending the Intercollegiate shoot of the week previous, the weather was beautifully calm and mild, though the light was somewhat dull.

As usual three ranges were fired, viz 200, 500 and 600 yards. The cup is awarded to the year making the highest total of its four best scores. For the second time the Class of '24 came to the top with its nearest rival being the Freshmen.

The following is a list of the scores that decided the issue: Hunter, P. S., Sc. '24.....93
Mooney, F. D., Med. '24.....93
Emmons, W. F., Med. '24.....83
Geddes, L. F., Sc. '24.....83

Onto sent a team down that came within a small margin of a perfect score, Wiggins, of McGill, being the only man able to get in before the Blue and White team.

The McGill team put up a splendid fight. All of them ran themselves off their feet. R.M.C., accustomed to the flat course in Kingston, were checked by a hard mountain climb, and in dropping behind on the hill were unable to gain the distance lost in the long down hill run.

The meet was handled by J. C. Antliff, who, with the aid of Alexander, got the checkers out on the course. More than the needed number of men to act as markers were on hand. These men volunteered to check the passing runners, and handled the job well. The officials were as follows: Hon. Judge, Sir Arthur Currie; Judges, Dr. MacMillan, Dr. Sullivan, Mr. Harvey. Starter, Mr. Van Wagner. Clerk of Course, R. L. Hamilton, W. S. Antliff. Scorer, J. C. Antliff and C. Champion.

The men finished in the following order:—1, Goforth (T.), 32 min. 46 sec.; 2, Wiggins (M.), 32 min. 58 sec.; 3, Curtin (T.), 33 min. 43 sec.; 4, Bell (T.); 5, Smith (T.); 6, Leboutillier (R.M.C.); 7, Stephen (M.); 8, Kerr (M.); 9, Nelson (R.M.C.); 10, Legg (M.); 11, Shaver (T.); 12, Egerton (M.); 13, Creighton (R.M.C.); 14, Harris (R.M.C.); 15, Pritchard (R.M.C.). The length of the course covered was 5.6-10th miles.

influence. He also spoke on the character of our country, its geographical situation. He said that we are hundreds of miles nearer to the Orient than the United States, and about 1000 miles nearer to Europe. Mr. Birks suggested that our trade policy should be to develop and expand our foreign trade East and West.

Our traditions, he said, are strongly British, whilst our constitution was more Americanized, expressed the hope that our traditions would retain their British character. What struck the party on this trip was the great number of McGill men in places of influence.

A great impression of this western part of our country had been made upon the minds of the Britishers as well as upon the minds of the Canadians who had not covered the route before. Mr. Birks felt that Canada had more to offer than a foreign country in the way of climate, scenery etc.; the district around Banff being far more beautiful than Switzerland, the coast of British Columbia more picturesque than that of Norway.

E. C. Amaron then proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Birks. He said that the speaker's address was very interesting and entertaining, but that the views of some of the Western members might not agree with those of Mr. Birks concerning the West.

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB OPENS YEAR'S WORK

Many Races Represented—Officers Elected

The first meeting of the Cosmopolitan Club was held at Strathcona Hall last Saturday afternoon at 5 p.m. The election of officers resulted as follows: President—John Fotos, Arts '24. Vice-President—Philip Joseph Law, '24. Secretary—R. V. Michener, Med. 27. Treasurer—J. Macpherson, B.Sc. '23. Executive—E. C. Amaron, Arts '23. The discussion that arose on the floor in connection with the policy of the club elicited most spirited discussion from every one.

In spite of the difference of opinion expressed by a few of the members the general feeling was that the club was privileged to discuss questions of International politics, and should take every means in order to enlighten the members on the great need for "Point of View."

Point of view of the other fellow, it was emphasized, was an invaluable prerequisite to the formation of one's own opinion. This was therefore to be the purpose of the club, not so much to attempt to abolish racial differences as to make a conscious effort to have them all harmonize.

With this in view, the executive were urged to prepare a scheme of programmes for the rest of the session so as to make the meetings of a most interesting or cosmopolitan nature.

The club extends its welcome to all students of all races, nationalities and creeds. No one excluded from membership.

McGILL LOST TO QUEENS SATURDAY

McGill Showed Best Form of the Season

CARROLL STARRED

Wonderful End Run Plays by Both Teams

Playing their last game of the season in the Intercollegiate League, the Red and White football team, with nothing to gain in league standing, put up their best showing of the year, and held the tri-color twelve to a 20-10 score.

It was a game in which every strategy of the football field was brought into play by the opposing teams in an attempt to outwit their opponents. Unexpected trick plays, dashing individual work, and brilliant team work featured the contest at all times and the game was decided strictly on the individual merit of the two teams. The two teams, in turn, suffered misfortunes through misdirected plays, and both of them had their share of lucky escapes at times, but, on the whole, the god of luck bestowed his kindly glances on the opposing aggregations impartially.

"Dink" Carroll was by far the outstanding player on the McGill team, if not on the field, Carroll, though handicapped by lack of weight, put up the prettiest exhibition he has ever given since donning the Red and White.

His punting was steady and his return of kicks nothing short of sensational at times, but the department in which he excelled was in running through broken fields for long gains before the opposing wings could successfully tackle him. With Little and Crain, he worked a series of end runs for long gains, something which McGill has been unable to do for the past few years. Carroll was injured and taken off the field at the conclusion of his most brilliant play of the day, when he turned an apparent loss in an end run into a gain for thirty yards by a whirling dash through a mass of Queen's players.

The day was chosen by the townspeople of Kingston as a celebration in honor of their victorious representatives on the gridiron and the grand stand was packed with spectators to cheer their favorites on in the battle. Over in the bleachers the rooters swayed up and down to the tunes of their college songs, which were belted forth with a vigor that has been unequalled there for many years past. The girl rooters, attired in tricolor tams and waving balloons and ribbons in the Queen's colors added their shrill quota to the college yells as the leaders cavorted up and down in front of them. The bear cub mascot ambled about in a sleepy fashion that brought to mind the lateness of the season and increased the tinge of merriment for the occasion by its humorous action at the unexpected times.

There was the short and serious moment when the tablet was unveiled to the memory of Captain Richardson, whose donation had rendered possible the building of the stadium in which the game was being played. The graduates of the college, assembled for the college reunion, listened to the short speech at the unveiling by the president of the Athletic Board, and then after the college band had played the National Anthem, as the crowd stood with hats doffed, the teams lined up on the field for the opening of the play.

The meeting of the two teams was featured by the strong opening offensive of the McGill team, the quick change in tactics that put Queen's in the lead and threatened to make the game a walk-away for them, and in the dying moments, the driving onslaught of the visitors that came too late, but changed the score from a one-sided affair to a comparatively close result. The difference in the McGill team's performance over their previous games this season was in fact that they took more chances, a system that cost them serious losses at times, but again would result in long gains down the field. Don Bailey, directing the Red and White players for the first time this year, took advantage of almost every opening offered and the result was that both of the teams played an open game that was a pleasure to watch.

Batstone and Leadley were, as usual, the mainstays of the Queen's attack, and they played a steady game throughout. The former player, although not as brilliant from the onlookers' point of view, was the pivot around which the majority of the formations hinged, and he also did a great part of the work individually. The end runs, for which the winning team has been justly noted, did not result in such enormous gains as in the former contests owing to the McGill defence which was prepared for them, but they did cause good advances throughout all parts of the game.

Murphy, a freshman, and hitherto a substitute on the team, was called upon to do the punting when Carroll was injured, and he responded by sending over long spirals that were equal to those of his predecessor. On the wing lines of the opposing teams, Manson played the best game for McGill, while McKelvey was the outstanding Queen's player. Don Baillie made long gains through centre when they were needed, and outplayed Evans, the opposing quarter back, at his own game, for which he has been marked in the former contests this year.

Leadley kicked off at the opening of the game, and Carroll, catching the ball, sent a long return through the arms of the oncoming wings that went to Batstone, where he was downed on his 40-yard line. An offside by Queen's lost them 15 yards, and when an exchange of punts took place between Leadley and Carroll, Batstone finally caught the ball and was held on his 35-yard mark. Then a fumble gave the ball to McGill and Carroll punted, Manson tearing through middle wing, went down the fields and, when Batstone caught the ball behind his own line he was downed in his tracks by the husky wing player and forced to rouge.

McGill, 1; Queen's, 0. Within a few minutes the McGill line was in danger. At the scrimmage on the 25-yard line Queen's plunged through for yards on successive downs and then an end run brought them down the field for another ten yards before Little brought down Leadley, who was carrying the ball. A punt by Leadley was caught by Carroll on his eight-yard mark and when the McGill halfback was blocked on the first down, Queen's secured the ball on their opponent's 30-yard line. Then two end runs brought the ball down close to the goal line, but here the defenders held stubbornly and Queen's could not budge them in two downs. The tricolor wings spread out for an onside kick over the goal line, but when it was rescued, Carroll leaped high in the air and sent it from Leadley, but the McGill player was unable to get out and had to rouge.

McGill, 1; Queen's, 1. When McGill scrimmaged the ball on their 25-yard line a punting duel started between Carroll and Leadley, in which the former player had the advantage for a time. An end run brought Queen's a little nearer to the goal line, and the next kick by Leadley found Little held on his five-yard line. Carroll punted out of danger again, but Leadley ran the ball back within striking distance, and on the first down, sent a high kick over the line. The ball was caught by Carroll and dodging Thomas and Walker, who came down under the kick, he ran out to his ten-yard line and again punted on the first down. Leadley made the catch and after a short run he booted over the line again and Carroll was forced to rouge.

Queen's, 2; McGill, 1. "Dink" Carroll began sending long punts over and into touch to prevent the Queen's backs from running them back and the ruse worked rather well throughout the whole contest. He sent over a kick that went in touch at the 40-yard line, and on Queen's first down the backs tried an end run, but the ball was fumbled between Leadley and Batstone, and the McGill wings broke up the play before they could get started. Then Leadley sent over a long kick, but Carroll's return sailed high and long over the backs' heads and went in touch at the home team's 35-yard line. Reporting to line play Queen's team were more successful and they made a first down just as the period ended. Score: Queen's, 2; McGill, 1.

The second quarter saw McGill start some plunging tactics, while Queen's, with the wind behind them, relied on kicking to keep the ball out of their territory. Leadley had punted on the third down when his team was unable to make their yards, and after Carroll had caught the ball on the 25-yard line, McGill gained their yards in two straight plunges through the middle of the line. Carroll then kicked in touch at Queen's 25-yard line. Leadley punted on the first down for his team, and McGill held on their 45-yard mark.

Then the plunging started again. Crain hit the middle hard for a gain of nine yards, and on the second down, Baillie stole through middle for a first down. An end run by Crain followed that netted his team 12 yards, but the next down saw them lose the advantage when they were penalized 15 yards for offside play on the line. Carroll was forced to punt and Leadley, making a beautiful return, sent the ball back to the same McGill man, who was held on his 28-yard mark. Manson was given the ball to carry, and plunged for eight yards, but on the next play, when Baillie tried the dangerous expedient of an onside kick in his own territory, the ball went directly into Leadley's arms, and Queen's were in possession on McGill's 30-yard line.

The play was disastrous, for on the first down Batstone plunged through middle wing, and when tackled passed to McKelvey, who advanced to the five-yard mark before being blocked. Going strong, they could not be stopped, and Mundell went over for a try on the second down. Leadley converted.

Queen's, 8; McGill, 1. The play had only been started a short time when Queen's secured two more points to add to their total. Foss had kicked off for McGill and when Leadley sent back a long return McGill were in possession at their 40-yard line. Woodruff plunged for eight yards, and then Carroll punted. The ball was caught by Batstone at his 35-yard mark, and moving hastily to avoid the oncoming wings, he sent back a long return that Carroll caught just outside his own line, and Thomas coming down fast, threw the light McGill man over the goal line for a safety touch.

Queen's, 10; McGill, 1. A series of line plunges gained yards for McGill twice. On the first occasion Ambridge hit the line for 5 yards, Baillie went through centre for three and then Little, taking a long plunge, made a twelve yard gain. The second time saw Manson make a dash at middle for a gain of seven yards, while Foss gained the rest necessary for a first down. However, a partly blocked kick nullified the gains, for Queen's secured the ball on their opponent's forty-five yard line and the one yard from his goal-line just as the half time whistle was blown. Score: Queen's, 10; McGill, 1.

The opening of the second half of the game saw Carroll make some sensational runs in carrying the ball back after receiving kicks. Foss had started by kicking off for 55 yards to Queen's goal-line and Leadley ran the ball out to his 15-yard mark before being downed. When an end run failed, Leadley kicked on the next down and Little made the catch; he was tackled by Thomas, but passed to Carroll when falling, and the little player dodged through for fifteen yards before being downed. After two unsuccessful plays, in which Muirhead and McGregor were chased to the penalty bench for scrapping, Carroll punted and Batstone was downed on his 30-yard mark. Leadley sent a long kick over and Carroll, making the catch, was down the field for a twenty yard run before being stopped by Thomas. The latter player was injured in his plucky tackle, and had to leave the playing field. An on-side kick by Baillie went to Leadley and the Queen's half sent the ball back over the goal-line, where it bounded to the deadline for a point. Queen's, 11; McGill, 1.

The Queen's backs then started a few pretty runs on their own account. On the scrimmage from the 25-yard line, Baillie plunged through for a first down and followed with another dash for seven yards but, unable to make the rest, Carroll punted to the Queen's 40-yard chalk mark. A beautiful end run by Leadley and Batstone netted them 25 yards, and put the ball well into McGill territory. Another attempt failed, however, and Leadley punted to Little just outside of his own mark. Carroll sent back a long kick on the first down, but the McGill wings were slow and Leadley ran the ball back to McGill's 30-yard line. Two downs failed to gain through the line, and Leadley dropped back to attempt a drop kick. The ball sailed up and struck the middle of the cross-bar, but in the eccentric way of the oval, bounded up and over for three points. Queen's, 14; McGill, 1.

After the kick-off, McGill worked a hidden ball trick that was common some time ago, but has not been seen for a few years past. The ball was snapped back to a jumbled mass of McGill players and out of them shot Crain and Little on an end run, apparently with the all. The Queen's wings all started across the field to block them only to find that they were chasing a headgear under the player's arm, while Baillie ran down the side of the field with the real ball. The trick netted a gain of 45 yards, and should have resulted in a touchdown had the players accompanying him spread out. As it was they bunched in close to the touchline, and were blocked by Leadley and Batstone just past the Queen's ten yard line. The whole gain was pretty well nullified when a fumble, coupled with interference, gave the ball to Queen's on the 25-yard line.

Leadley punted after his team had lost 15 yards for offside, and McGill had the ball on their opponents' 45-yard line. Then came the last play of the day for Carroll, and the most sensational one. An end run was started around right end with Crain, Carroll and Little handling the ball. Crain passed to Carroll, and when the latter's way was blocked by Leadley, he suddenly swerved to the left through a mass of wings, and, following a zig-zag and twirling course, he went down the field for almost 30 yards to his opponents' 20-yard line. His arm was injured by a bruise when he was tackled and he had to be replaced by Dyer. Murphy kicked over on the next play in touch-in-goal for a point. ended a moment later.

Queen's, 14; McGill, 2. The period With no experienced punter left on the McGill team, Murphy was called upon to boot the pigskin and he responded by sending over some high and long spirals. An exchange of punts coupled with fumbles gave the ball to both teams in McGill territory for a while until McGill finally held on their 40-yard line. Baillie sent an onside kick up and Crain picked it out of the air and advanced for twenty yards before Evans brought him down. Muirhead was given his second penalty of the day for scrapping during the play. Murphy punted and Batstone was downed with the ball on his 12-yard line.

In an exchange of punts resulted in a loss for McGill, as the last one from Leadley went over the heads of the McGill backs and bounded to McGill's 10-yard line before being recovered. Murphy kicked the ball in touch at his 40-yard line. A nice run by Evans netted his team a 15-yard gain, but Murphy re-secured the ball for his team a minute later when an onside kick was attempted by Queen's. A minute later the ball was fumbled behind the McGill line, and Queen's secured the pigskin on the Red and White team's three yard mark. Campbell went over for a try on the second down, and Batstone converted.

Queen's, 20; McGill, 2. Foss made a long kick off that bounded from side to side on the ground, and when it touched a Queen's man on the leg, putting it aside, the McGill wings were quick to secure it on Queen's 20-yard line. A plunge on the first down netted three yards for McGill and finding it impossible to gain yards in this way Little dropped back and sent a pretty drop kick over the centre of the bar.

Queen's, 20; McGill, 5. Nickle was sent in to play on the Queen's back line and his short stay on the team was costly to them. The exchange of punts after the kick-off had given the ball to McGill on their 50-yard line, and when Murphy kicked again on the first down, Nickle fumbled the ball on his ten yard line and McGill secured. Two hard plunges brought McGill up to their opponents' line and, on the third down, Baillie went through centre for a try. He failed to convert it, and the game ended just after the kick-off. Final score, Queen's, 20; McGill, 10.

TEAM TUNES UP FOR GAME IN SYRACUSE

Coach Shaughnessy Tutoring Men in American Football

"FLIN" WILL PLAY.

Carroll's Injury Not as Serious as First Reported

The McGill football squad got in a morning drill at the Stadium yesterday. The field was being used in the afternoon for the Allan Arless Memorial game between M.A.A.A. and the Toronto Argonauts, and Coach Shaughnessy, with only four practice days remaining before the final game of the season in Syracuse, is losing no opportunity of getting in a good workout.

Building up a defence against the forward pass occupied most of the time. The Orange team will no doubt depend a great deal on the effectiveness of its aerial attack to beat the McGill eleven. It will be remembered that the Syracuseans, in last year's game, scored their first touchdown by a 20-yard forward pass over the goal line, and on a dry field they will no doubt resort more frequently to this play.

The McGill backfield is being carefully coached in that very important branch of the American game, running interference. This is one of the prettiest features of the game as played across the border.

The appearance of "Dink" Carroll on the sidelines with his arm in a sling, and the announcement that his arm was not broken as first reported, but only bruised, brought joy into the Red and White camp, for the absence of this versatile half-back, who turned in on Saturday what was undoubtedly the best of his many excellent performances on the half-line, would have been a sore blow to McGill, and the scarcity of half-backs would have made the vacancy a hard one to fill.

"Flin" Flanagan and "Cam" Cope were also on the side-lines, and both will be able to take part in practice by Wednesday, it is hoped.

"Flin" it will be remembered, played a wonderful game against Syracuse last year, and with the experience gained by playing a full game under the American rules, should turn in another good game this year.

Selby Cope, leading line plunger of the champion 1919 team, was out for practice, and should bolster up the line. The presence on the squad of a couple of men who have played the game in the States is making Coach Shaughnessy's task somewhat lighter. The Syracuse team, which has been dogged by hard luck since the beginning of the season, struck its stride Saturday by defeating the strong Nebraska eleven by a score of 9-6.

Little Brilliant Play Shown by Either Side

Toronto University won the Intercollegiate English Rugby championship Saturday afternoon by defeating McGill 7 to 0. The game was not a very interesting one, team play being very little in evidence. The attendance was very poor, due perhaps in a measure to the M.A.A.A.—Ottawa game on the grounds of the former in Westmount.

Toronto scored all their points in the first half of the game, a try and a drop kick giving them 7 points. At the opening of play, McGill took the offensive, and for a time it appeared as if they were by far the better team. Toronto, however, steadied down, and after securing the ball went over for a try. Shortly after, Caple, the Toronto captain kicked a drop kick. For the rest of the period the ball moved up and down the field, but neither side was able to tally. McGill made determined efforts to score in the second period but the Toronto defence was very strong and the ball, never got within dangerous distance of their goal line.

The worst casualty of the game was suffered by Wilkes of Toronto. The elbow of his right arm was badly dislocated and he was taken to the Royal Victoria Hospital to have it set.

For Toronto, Pentelow and Caple were the outstanding players, while Marpole and Wilson were best for McGill.

McGILL GRADUATES DO WELL IN THEIR RESPECTIVE VOCATIONS

Medical Grads Take Active Part in the American Society for the Control of Cancer—Science Man is Appointed Lecturer in the University of British Columbia—Many Medical Grads Admitted to the Degree of Fellow of the American College of Surgeons.

Dr. John George Scott, Med. '79, of Ottawa, died very suddenly on Saturday, October 28, while a member of a hunting party, near Waltham, Que. Immediately after having shot at and killed a deer, Dr. Scott collapsed and expired of heart failure. Dr. R. E. Webster, Med. '91, of Ottawa, who was a member of the same party, and who was with Dr. Scott at the time, worked over his friend for half an hour in an effort to restore life. The late Dr. Scott was an enthusiastic hunter. He was born at City View, near Ottawa, 66 years ago, and after engaging in practice in the neighborhood of Ottawa, settled in that city 30 years ago. He was a thirty-second degree Freemason, and a member of Dominion Methodist Church, Ottawa. Surviving are his wife and two sons, Dr. G. Orville Scott, Med. '10, of Ottawa, and Dr. W. C. M. Scott, Med. '14, at present taking a post graduate course in Vienna.

Rev. James W. Pedley, Arts '24, who has been elected president of the Toronto Ministerial Association, is now supplying as pastor of Broadview Congregational Church in that city, and is a former pastor of the Western Congregational Church, Toronto; the First Congregational Church, London, Ont.; the Vancouver Congregational Church, and other important charges. Rev. Mr. Pedley is one of four brothers who graduated in Arts at McGill, three of whom entered the ministry.

Dr. E. J. Behan, Med. '22, has entered the practice of medicine at Timmins, Ont., and Dr. Trevor G. Browne, a classmate, has joined the staff of Harvard Medical School.

At the close of several years spent in China, Graham Kearney, Sci. '11, has been at his old home in Renfrew, Ont., recently, together with his wife and child. Mr. Kearney is now manager of the electrical department of Anderson, Meyer, and Co., at Tientsin.

Dr. A. R. Landry, Med. '07, is returning to his home in Moncton, N.B., after taking a post graduate course in Paris.

Chairmen appointed for the provinces of Canada for the American Society for the Control of Cancer include the following:—

Alberta—Dr. F. W. Mewburn, Med. '81, Calgary.
British Columbia—Dr. W. B. Burnett, Med. '99, Vancouver.
Prince Edward Island—Dr. J. S. Jenkins, Med. '12, Charlottetown.
Saskatchewan—Dr. H. E. Monroe, Med. '03, Saskatoon.
Quebec—Dr. F. J. Tees, Arts '01, Med. '05, Montreal.

It is a pleasure to graduates to learn that "Canadian Fairy Tales," the latest literary production of Dr. Cyrus Macmillan, Arts '00, is meeting with a reception equally enthusiastic to that which greeted his "Canadian Wonder Tales" some years ago, and his history of the University, which appeared at the time of the Centenary Celebration.

Rev. James E. Fee, M.A., Arts '03, of this city, has been elected president of the Quebec Provincial Board of the Social Service Council of Canada.

The marriage has just taken place at Wingham, Ont. of Miss Margaret Eva (Gretta) Kennedy, of that place, and Dr. Walter Welton Read, Med. '19, son of the late Dr. H. H. Read, Med. '61, and of Mrs. Read, Halifax, N.S.

CAUCUS COSSIP

THE GOVERNMENT

The cabinet of the Progressive Government meets this afternoon in Stratheona Hall to apply final polishing touches to that policy which will be announced in enumerated form in tomorrow's issue of the Daily. No members of the government have been able to comprehend the opposition, as indicated, in a serious light, certainly not as a formidable menace to the continued stability of the government. For its outlook seems to be that of "Party before Country," and such a policy will alienate thinking members of parliament. Its announced intention is to "oust the Prime Minister and split his party"—and this before the definite policy of the present administration has been announced. Certainly such an aim is based upon personal and not patriotic sentiments. It is not the supreme welfare of the country which the opposition seeks, but the triumph of its selfish personal ends. Such is potentially very dangerous to the liberties of all citizens and particularly of all students. The Progressive government is prepared to put the country and particularly the student before any personal and selfish interests of its own.

Parliament opens Thursday night. The Government's legislation will in all probability deal with the railways chiefly. It is practically known that the government intends to abolish hanging as the form of capital punishment. This action arises from the gruesome tragedy recently enacted in hanging Benny Swin in New Brunswick. The government has seen fit to establish a special department of Student Welfare, through which it intends to materially better the status of the university student. The taxes on cigarettes and tobacco will certainly be removed. Likely also effective action will be taken to remove the excise duties on beer and spirituous liquors. The government will insist that more consideration be shown the student throughout Canada in recreational particulars, insisting upon special rates to them at all theatres and places of amusement.

The Progressive administration fully intends to live up to its name. For those who love progress, national and individual, combined with stability, personal freedom mingled with judicious restraint, and justice in the most complete sense, there is no doubt but that the policy of the present government will give the utmost satisfaction.

THE OPPOSITION

Although the Constitutional Party has not been hurling invectives at the Government, it does not follow that it has been idle. On the contrary, plans of organization have been prepared and the prospective cabinet to assume control after the expulsion of that at present in power has been decided upon. The exceedingly dilatory proceeding of the Progressive Party in failing to announce their programme, whether from lack of faith in its efficacy or lack of co-operation in its formulation, has rendered impossible the publication of a policy to the large number awaiting to hear. There is a caucus scheduled for noon today in the Law building, at which it is expected that the Prime Minister may arrange to have forwarded to discuss pertinent matters. The results of the meeting will appear in tomorrow's Daily.

FINDING ONE'S PLACE

Every student has an important place in University life, if he will only seek earnestly and diligently for his particular niche. Although the primary purpose of a student is to study and acquire specific knowledge, education also includes a broader training, which is gained only from experience, acquaintance and association. The bookworm usually leads a narrow, selfish and lonesome existence. The idler receives no real benefit from his wasted hours. The student who desires to make a meritorious scholastic record, although that may not include all A's, and in addition to participate in student activities will receive the broadest and most beneficial education of all.—Daily Texan.

came for Syracuse. Lewellyn, Nebraska halfback, punted from behind his goal line and Frugone made a fair catch on Nebraska's 35-yard line which permitted Syracuse to have a free trial at the goal. McBride, Syracuse halfback, made good with a perfect placement kick and Syracuse took the lead with three points.

The battle was even in the second period, but a break came in the third period which was converted into a touchdown for the Westerners. In midfield Syracuse tried a double pass, but the ball slipped and bounded along the gridiron. Thompson, a substitute for Nebraska, grabbed the ball and ran fifty-two yards for a touchdown.

By a series of rushes in the final quarter Syracuse advanced the ball to within six inches of the Nebraska line. Anderson charged three times at the line, but the bulky Western wall held him back. The Syracuse line put everything it had in the fourth effort and Anderson got over with the ball for a touchdown that won the game. McBride failed to kick goal, but it meant little, as Syracuse assumed the defensive and held the Westerners safe for the rest of the game.

PUSH-BALL PROVES A NOVEL SUCCESS

Score of 0-0 Result of Stiff Battle

At half-time of the Arless memorial football game at the Stadium yesterday, some four-score McGill men staged a push-ball exhibition. This proved a novel and very amusing method of entertaining the grand-stand.

The spectators were in a happy mood, the rugby score standing in M.A.A.A.'s favor, and judging from the applause the contest was received very favorably. To see a struggling mass of humans pushing a huge ball above their heads was indeed amusing.

The "Polar Bears" started the game with a rush, and gained about ten yards. From then on the opposing "Froids Chiens" had the advantage and managed to push the ball to within a few yards of their opponents' goal. The "Polar Bears" were clearly over-trained, stretching exercises might

POPPIES TO BE SOLD AT R.V.C. SA URDAY

At a meeting of the R.V.C. Undergraduate Society executive on Saturday it was decided that arrangements should be made for the girls to sell poppies at R.V.C. on Saturday morning, November 11, in order that R.V.C. as a body might help in the Poppy Day campaign. It is hoped that everyone will come and buy a poppy.

It was also decided that a Thé Danant should be given at R.V.C. on November 18.

prove a winning factor for the next game.

Despite the efforts of "Unic" Munn and Puddicombe the "Polar Bears" could not withstand the attacks of the "Froids Chiens" who were led by "Lux" McCullough. The play was entirely over the heads of several inexperienced men who are not yet able to keep their feet. There were no serious casualties and at the end of half-time the unsuccessful teams retired under cover of the bleachers. The cause assisted was indeed a worthy one.

Co-eds "Shoe" Burglar Away

The racket caused by 27 pairs of dainty ladies' shoes, punctuated by screams and squeals, served their purpose when a burglar was frightened from the Alpha Gam house at the University of Oklahoma. The sorority uncles are now having difficulty in determining whose shoes are which.

Where's Those Frosh Co-ed Labels?

It is noted with interest that an article appears in the Iowa University organ stating that Indiana freshman co-eds are wearing green badges. What ever become of that order? Ancient history?

That's It Exactly

"When co-eds of Indiana University wanted to show their support of Indiana athletics they raised $175.

THEOLOGS VICTORS BY CLOSE SCORE

Displayed Good Form Despite Lack of Practice

The McGill soccer team making its first appearance against a picked eleven of Theologians on Saturday last went down to defeat by the score of 1-0. The game was well contested, so much so that only after the final whistle could the Theologs claim the victory.

The McGill defence played a steady game and were responsible for the small score. It was evident from the poor combination of our forwards that much can be done to improve their passing by, more systematic coaching. Still one must remember that many of these men have not played the game for some years and are therefore at a disadvantage against a team that has been in existence for the past two seasons. Despite this fact they fought hard and though defeated had the satisfaction of keeping the ball in their opponents' half for the greater part of the game.

The Theologs played a defensive game, trying occasional rushes, but not enough passing was done, hence it was not very difficult for our "backs" to clear the ball out of a dangerous position. Their goal-keeper deserves a great deal of praise for the skillful way in which he handled the difficult shots of our forwards. The line-up—

Goal	Theologs
Easterbrook	Woodhouse
Gegg	Britton
Steadwick	Hall
Bostock	Smith
Carlyle	Davis

Right Half	Wheeler
Stockhauser
Outside Right
Holland	Saunders
Inside Right
McPherson	Wilkinson
Centre Forward
Seaton	Cave
Inside Left
Bickford	McPhail
Plant	Robb

Both sides played a fair game, and it is to be hoped that a return match will be shortly arranged.

From the enthusiasm shown by the many spectators and the keenness of the players, it is apparent that soccer deserves a place as one of the major sports at McGill. The team will confine itself to local matches for this season, but it is expected that the Athletic Association will help to arrange inter-collegiate games for session 1923-24.

SYRACUSE SCORES UNEXPECTED WIN

Orange Eleven Triumphs Over Strong Nebraskans

Since the time of the noted David-Goliath encounter no underdog rose to a more brilliant victory than Syracuse did in defeating the mighty Nebraska eleven, 9 to 6, on Saturday.

Touted as a sure doormat for a mighty Western power that came East with a reputation that it could beat Yale, Harvard and Princeton on successive days, Syracuse rose up and, with a thrilling victory, provided the most sensational surprise of the year. Syracuse started off with a little thrust that gave them a lead of three points on a field goal and finished with a kick that brought them a touchdown and a victory over an eleven that was a 3 to 1 choice in the betting to win. Late in the first period the first break
